Frequently Asked Questions

What happens next?

While customer choice in VA appears to be moving forward, there are still legislative steps to happen. Right now, Albireo Energy is signing customers into our EnergyAuctions agreements which will include you in our buying groups for when/if the market opens in 2022.

After signing, your electric account will be committed and placed into our VA Buying Power program, but you will not be placed into a supply contract until the law has been adopted. While you will be a member of the Buying Power program, you WILL NOT be placed in a supply deal unless there are savings versus the active utility rate at the time of execution. If the law does not get re-upped in the legislature, nothing will happen with your accounts and you will remain on the current utility rate.

Can I sign up my residential account?

Unfortunately, this program is simply for non-residential accounts and that is determined by the utility rate class on your invoice. If you have any questions, as to your eligibility for this program, please contact our offices and we will guide you through the rules.

What other businesses support VA customer choice?

In addition to Albireo Energy, many recognizable companies are supportive of customer choice in Virginia including Target, Walmart, Krogers, Microsoft and many more. To learn more about the coalition, please visit the Energy Choice for Virginia website: energychoiceforvirginia.com

Will my utility service change?

No. You'll still receive your power from the utility at the same level of service as you do today. Your utility (i.e. Dominion, APCo, and others) will continue the delivery of power to your business, because that part remains regulated. This includes maintaining and repairing of the poles, meters and wires in your area and if your power should go out, you will continue to call the utility.

Which utilities does VA Buying Power service?

VA Buying Power will focus on areas served by Dominion and Appalachian Power (APCo). If your electricity is billed by one of these utilities and you are an organization (business, corporate, charity, church, school, college, university or other non-residential account) you are eligible to join VA Buying Power and receive the group purchasing benefits.

How do I sign up?

Simply enroll online or contact our team by phone at 855-521-8780. You will need the most recent copy of your electric and/or natural gas invoice(s) and any energy supply contracts that you have tied to those account(s). The process is simple, effective, and managed by energy experts.
